Who am I?

What defines me as a person among others,
to me?
And to them?

Is it things of the earth or those of God and His Kingdom?

How do others “measure” me as compared to themselves and to our culture, society and church?

How do I want them to measure me?

How do I measure myself?

What do I want
more than anything else?

What would make me feel secure among others?

What do I imagine would make me totally fulfilled and fully satisfied in this life if only I could get hold of it?

What do I imagine would meet the deepest need of my inner being a need formed within me by the hand of God
but which can only be met in union with Him
through His Son Jesus the Christ Who came not only as my Savior but as the One whose Lordship is the only possible source for all that I long for?

Why is it so easy for me to believe lies instead of truth?
